

Knizhnaia letopis': Russia's Book Index 1980-1997 More Backfiles Available

Knizhnaia letopis' (The Book Index) is simply the most definitive reference guide available to Russia's published books. For decades, libraries have turned to this publication to follow book publishing trends in the USSR and Russia.

Most subscribers of East View's Universal Database of Russian National Bibliography (UDB-BIB) currently have online access to Knizhnaia letopis' from 1998-2014, and Knigi Rossii from 2015.

Recently, East View negotiated with the Russian Book Chamber to load additional Knizhnaia letopis' content from 1980 to 1997 to UDB-BIB. Researchers can now get online access to the most comprehensive bibliographic resource on Russian printed books.

The archive now contains nearly 860,000 records and the vast majority of those records were not previously available to UDB-BIB subscribers.

East View's UDB-BIB allows browsing through the subject classification system to find relevant reference by topic. Users will find three-levels of the subject classification system translated into English in addition to the original Russian, as well as complete transliteration of all Cyrillic text. This allows users to effortlessly access millions of Russian bibliographic citations in all disciplines from publishers, by year, author, subject, title, or by any keyword.
