

Century Journals Project (CJP)

The single largest retrospective collection of journals from China

The Century Journals Project (CJP) documents the economic, political, scientific, philosophical and cultural development of modern China with on-line access to the often hidden, always dynamic, life and times of one of the world's largest populations. In CJP researchers will be able to trace a cross-section of respected Chinese scholarship through the founding of the People's Republic of China, the Cultural Revolution, economic reform and the rapid ascent of China to the position it now occupies in the world. Offered via the China National Knowledge Infrastructure (CNKI) platform, CJP augments a subscription to China Academic Journals (CAJ), sharing all the benefits of the CNKI interface.
