Now available from East View Information Services, the Chinese Social Science Library (CSSL) is a collection of titles published by China Social Sciences Press over the past 40 years. China Social Sciences Press is the central publishing arm of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences—China's foremost think tank—and one of the top three social sciences publishers in China. CSSL represents the prestigious publishing house's first-ever digital offering for its wide range of humanities and social sciences titles.

Titles in the Chinese Social Science Library are written by scholars from China's most prestigious institutions, such as the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, Peking University, Tsinghua University, Renmin University of China, and the Central Party School, and cover a broad range of topics including philosophy, religion, history, archaeology, literature, art, economics, and politics.

CSSL currently contains over 14,000 books, with plans to ultimately include all China Social Sciences Press titles—more than 30,000 books in total. CSSL is updated bimonthly, with 100-200 titles added each update, or approximately 1,500 new books per year.
