Taiwan

THE JOURNAL OF TAIWAN LAW

臺法月報資料庫

The Journal of Taiwan Law was first published in 1905 by the Taiwan High Court under the jurisdiction of the Taiwan Government-General (now the "High Court of the Judicial Yuan"). Its purpose was to introduce Taiwan's laws, regulations, and rulings, serving as a resource for citation, research, and scholarly reference. Nearly a century after its publication, TBMC has faithfully restored the original materials without omissions, providing a clear representation of the development trajectory of Taiwan's legal system. The database aims to offer an in-depth understanding of the following: the development of the legal system in Taiwan during the Japanese colonial period, the transition from traditional feudal society to a Western legal system, and the comparative analysis of modern and traditional laws.

East View Archive Editions - East & Southeast Asia Collection

The East View Archive Editions (formerly known as Cambridge Archive Editions) East & Southeast Asia Collection presents rich historical reference materials on political, territorial, and ethnic issues. From the 16th century onward, Great Britain established consulates wherever possible. In East and Southeast Asia, there were British officials in Beijing, Shanghai, Hong Kong, Singapore, Taiwan, Tokyo, and more, all in the effort to further trade relations. The by-product was a steady stream of written information, observations, and maps on the national heritage and political development of many countries, made at a local level. The material is particularly rich for the study of boundary formation, claims and disputes, allowing users to easily find unique insight in maps, government documents, and more.

Archive Editions are now found on a custom platform, featuring these collections:

SOUTH CHINA SEA ISLAND DISPUTES: 1877–1988

This assembly of select texts, maps, and official documents from various national archives presents a primary record of multiple international territorial disputes surrounding the South China Sea and its various islands in the period 1877 to 1988.

South China Sea Island Disputes 1877–1988 presents the complex web of history, trade, and diplomatic engagement in this region of multiple, adjacent international interests. Chinese claims purport to go back to the Han Dynasty, while part of the Chinese argument vis-à-vis Vietnam is that the predecessor of the modern Vietnamese state was a Chinese vassal. Some Vietnamese claims hinge on succession to French rights, especially in regard to the Paracel Islands. Relations among some claimants reflect centuries of rivalry and antagonism that have exacerbated the island disputes and have led to armed conflict. The documents presented in the present collection mirror these tensions, the historical and legal context of which is critical to researching the positions of all parties. Learn more at eastview.com/ae-south-china-sea-island-disputes.

GLOBAL CENSUS ARCHIVE®

East View presents Global Census Archive® (GCA), an innovative program to collect official data and publications issued by the national census authorities of more than 200 countries, from the early 19th century to the present day, providing a key resource for scholars and analysts to find current and historical census data to support critical research into our changing world.

GCA provides a single platform experience to explore the world's census publications: all countries and regions, the complete depth of published census materials, including original census publications in e-book form, as well as modern tabular data in Excel format and GIS datasets for advanced users.

This truly global collection contains all available primary source and official census publications associated with a given census. Presented on a customized platform, GCA currently contains millions of pages of publications and billions of data points in GIS format, with more content continually added as new censuses are produced across the globe. Users can browse historical publications as full-image, full-text e-books (in any language), download tabular data in Excel format (for born-digital publications), and download GIS data (e.g., shapefiles of administrative boundaries)—all from a standardized platform optimized for accessibility and discovery. Learn more at eastview.com/gca.

China Mobilizes to Contain Coronavirus Outbreak

Mass Mobilization in China to Battle Epidemic

(Xinhua News Agency, Jan. 27, 2020. Complete text.) Beijing – China extended the Spring Festival holiday and postponed school openings on Monday [Jan. 27], while transport restrictions have been adopted in various areas to further contain the coronavirus epidemic.

The seven-day Spring Festival vacation, scheduled to end on Jan. 30, was extended to Feb. 2. Universities, primary and middle schools and kindergartens across the country will postpone the opening of the spring semester until further notice, according to the General Office of the State Council.

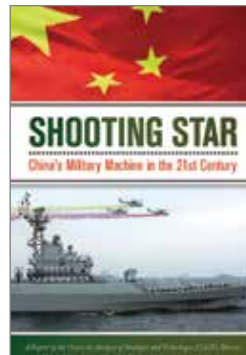

Entrusted by Xi Jinping, general secretary of the Communist Party Central Committee, to mobilize and control the spread of pneumonia caused by the novel coronavirus.

“We must give full play to the mobilization ability of primary-level communities, including rural communities, in personnel tracking and management among efforts to curb the spread of the virus,” said He Qinghua, an official with the National Health Commission on Monday.

Strict measures have been implemented in rural areas.

“Our 96 grassroots staff members are all working right now. We have been visiting households and monitoring body temperatures of returning migrant workers every day,” said Wu Lihui, Party official of a subdistrict office in the city of Shangrao, eastern China’s Jiangxi Province.

DIGITIZATION SERVICES

It's in the DNA of libraries to provide their researchers with the best and most extensive access to information, but the nature of print or microform collections limits access to researchers unable to visit the library during open hours.

Digitizing these unique collections helps libraries connect those resources with their researchers and researchers to your resources.

Partner with East View to convert materials currently in hard-to-use (microform) or deteriorating physical formats into digital resources accessible from any authenticated location 24/7.

We offer a full range of services for digital conversion and hosting, including:

- Digitization and OCRing
- Sourcing materials to complete collections
- Custom metadata creation
- Rights diligence
- Project management
- Development of Open Access or Hybrid Open Access products
- Archival preservation
- Hosting for long-term online access

When you work with East View to digitize your collections you are getting so much more than just scanning services. We can handle the entire digitization, conversion and hosting process, consulting with you every step of the way to make sure the end product is customized to suit the exact needs of your collection.

Have a collection with both simplified and Traditional Chinese characters? Working with Church Slavonic? East View has the expertise to create the best solution for your needs.

East View has over 30 years' experience working with area studies materials. We understand the challenges that come with working with non-Roman scripts, we know which platforms work best for different languages, and we can help you navigate the options to create a resource that meets your goals for scholarship and your collection. This is expertise that not many other outfits can match.

About East View

Since 1989, East View has provided high-quality information products and services in both vernacular languages and English to academic, corporate, and government clients worldwide.

For more than two decades, East View has offered the most extensive collection of East Asian online resources of any company in North America.

The company has also developed its own product line with a primary focus on China, beginning with the China Comprehensive Gazetteers. It later launched an online repository of pishu (皮书) white papers from the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, showcasing leading contemporary Chinese scholarship across the social sciences, from cultural studies to economic development.

In 2019, East View partnered with the Center for Research Libraries (CRL) to release an Open Access collection of late Qing Dynasty and Republican-era Chinese newspapers. Building on this successful collaboration, East View and CRL worked with member libraries to create additional Open Access collections, including Southeast Asian Newspapers and South Asian Newspapers.

Through the Global Press Archive Area Studies Initiative, launched in 2024, East View has further expanded online access to international newspapers, adding titles from Taiwan, Japan, and the Korean-American community in Los Angeles.

In 2021, Cambridge Archive Editions became a part of East View. Under the newly named East View Archive Editions, the company expanded the Archive Editions offerings with a new platform and databases such as South China Sea Island Disputes: 1877–1988 and The Chinese Soviet Republic.

Our newest initiatives are the East Asia Book Vault, a platform of US-hosted e-books from top-tier Chinese publishers, and a digital version of Manhua (漫画; 漫画月刊), a state-sponsored satirical magazine published in the People's Republic of China through the 1950's.

Whether you need the latest census data, fine arts content, or legal information from China, business data from Hong Kong, or online newspapers from Japan, East View either already provides access or can procure it.

East View is committed to sourcing uncommon information from extraordinary places. Our expanded Asian offerings continue traditions started over three decades ago.
