

Trud Digital Archive

Founded in 1921 in Moscow, Trud (Труд, Labor) was an influential Soviet newspaper and the official organ of the All-Union Central Council of Trade Unions. Among the earliest Soviet newspapers with a countrywide circulation, it attracted some of the most important journalists and writers in the USSR. Among its regular contributors were such notable poets as Vladimir Mayakovsky and Yevgeny Yevtushenko.

Although the newspaper was dedicated to covering issues concerning labor relations in the Soviet Union, economic analysis, the plight of workers in foreign countries, and the proliferation of official pronouncements, its more popular component attracted audiences from a broader pool of readers. At the height of the Gorbachev-era reforms the newspaper, like many others, would abandon its usual propagandistic bombast ensuring its growing popularity and catapulting its circulation to well over 20 million.

With the demise of the Soviet Union and the emergence of new publications in post-Soviet Russia that competed for readers from Trud's targeted audiences, the popularity of the newspaper subsided, although it has retained some of its former reputation as a reliable source for news and popular culture reportage.

Key Stats

- Archive: 1921-2025
- Language: Russian
- City: Moscow
- Country: Russia
- Frequency: Three times a week
- Format: PDF, page-based
- Producer: East View Information Services
- Platform: East View Universal Database and Global Press Archive

About the Archive

The Trud Digital Archive includes all obtainable issues published from 1921 on and represents the most complete collection available for this title. The archive features full page-level digitization, complete original graphics, and searchable text, and is cross-searchable with numerous other East View digital resources.

The Trud Digital Archive is a part of the East View Global Press Archive® (GPA), a groundbreaking program from East View Information Services to create the most comprehensive collection of digital news sources from around the world. GPA is the result of a landmark initiative of Stanford Libraries and the Hoover Institution Library & Archives to digitally preserve and make more accessible thousands of original print newspaper publications collected by the Hoover Institution and now housed by Stanford Libraries.

For more information or trial access, please contact info@eastview.com or visit <https://www.eastview.com/request-trial>

Trud Digital Archive – <https://www.eastview.com/resources/gpa/trud/> – April 3rd, 2026 2:05 pm UTC. Product information subject to change without notice. Please refer to eastview.com or contact your East View representative for the most current information.